Editorial.
The term "Soiling" is not always fully understood; in consequence of this, objections are frequently made to the practice that would not be made if there was a better understanding of the term. It is the soiling of the cow in the pasture, and is a most important part of the farmer's work. It is a practice which is not only beneficial to the cow, but also to the farmer. It is a practice which is not only beneficial to the cow, but also to the farmer.

Insects Destroying Potatoes.
Please tell me through the Ploughman, what kind of insect it is that is destroying the potatoes. I have a large number of potatoes, and they are being destroyed by a small insect. I have tried to destroy them by various means, but have not been successful. I would be very glad to hear from you.
